

BOOSTING THE BOTTOM LINE:

Office Technologies' Financial Impact on Businesses.

GREG CAVALLO

Prices are increasing in every aspect of business as companies are actively seeking ways to cut down on their expenditure. With a three-decade track record, Office Technologies, a trusted local provider of Office Printing Equipment, has been instrumental in assisting organizations in reducing their print-related expenditures.

Office Technologies provides cost-effective office equipment, supplies and service across the tri-county area as an authorized service center and trusted partner for leading print manufacturers including HP, Epson, Xerox, Kyocera, and Brother. Regardless of the manufacturer and model of your equipment, their service team is equipped with the qualifications and expertise to handle all your maintenance, repair, and supply needs.

Founder and President of Office Technologies, Greg Cavallo, has been working with local organizations for the past 30 years on their print spend. "The quickest way to make a financial impact on a business' print spending is to look at their print supplies. Most dollars spent aren't on the actual copier or printer in the office, but are on toner, parts, and service, and often this cost goes unmonitored. We can immediately help you understand your current print spend and provide alternative solutions that save upwards of 40%. This may be in the form of a new machine that runs at a much lower cost or simply offering lower-priced supplies than you're currently purchasing. We are looking at all avenues that will immediately drive down the total cost of ownership."

With a focus on providing cost-effective solutions without compromising on quality, Office Technologies is committed to helping businesses navigate the challenges of rising costs in today's economic climate. Visit www.myofficetechnologies.com to explore our complete range of services and products. Experience firsthand how Office Technologies can transform your printing experience while making a positive impact on your bottom line. Together, we'll take your printing operations to new heights.
