TIPS FOR HIRING THE RIGHT TALENT FOR YOUR SMALL BUSINESS

At some point along the way, small business owners realize that they cannot do it all themselves and still do it all well. Running a company is a huge undertaking and the larger and faster your company grows, the more you are going to need to rely on a trusted set of employees to continue to produce a quality product or service.

Hiring, however, introduces an entirely new variable to running a business and is a big change when you are used to running a company of one. Hiring the right talent comes down to honestly assessing the skills and talents your business needs most, being diligent and having patience in your search.

HIRING THE RIGHT PERSON IS A CHALLENGE FOR EVERYONE. THERE IS A LOT AT STAKE.

In its latest estimate, the U.S. Department of Labor reported the estimated cost of a bad hire is about 30-percent of an employee's annual compensation. Most small businesses cannot afford to make the wrong hiring decision.

Making smart hiring decisions is less of a science than an art. SCORE CEO and former V.P of Marketing and Communications, Bridget Weston, recommends that small business owners focus on refining the three primary areas of their hiring process to find the best candidates. She offers her advice on how to clarify the role, find qualified applicants and choose the best employee:

Clarify the Role

Make the position you are hiring crystal clear to potential applicants so you can attract qualified candidates and avoid having to weed through irrelevant resumes. Write a detailed job description that identifies responsibilities and required skills and expertise. The more accurate your description, the more effective you will be at attracting the right talent right off the bat.

Find Qualified Applicants

Half of the battle of hiring the best talent is finding the best talent. Posting a job description to a job board is a good start. But to find great talent, do some work to put the opportunity into the right hands. Leverage your network of professionals and ask whom they may know who could be a good fit. Use social media platforms, particularly LinkedIn, and do some homework to uncover other potential candidates. More and more people are finding jobs via social media and it is now a hiring pool that employers cannot ignore.

Choose the Best Employee

The key here is to take your time. Choosing the best employee is a process and requires that you do your due diligence. Review resumes and speak to top candidates. It may take two or three rounds of interviews to get a solid understanding of which candidates are best for the job. When you are interviewing, do not undervalue the softer attributes that are not as easy to identify on a resume, like cultural fit and the candidate's ability to communicate clearly with clients or customers. Finally, check references. References can help you learn more about how the candidate performed in past roles and whether they would make a good fit within your organization.
