About Top Knotch Construction

Top Knotch Construction was born in 2009 from a passion of providing excellent service at an affordable price. Founder, Justin Swanger, had been in the construction industry for over 25 years. Prior to joining the construction industry, Justin served in the United States Navy where he learned that quality is by far the most important factor in doing any job. After being honorably discharged, he began working for numerous home improvement companies where he learned different aspects of his now extensive trade.

In 1997 Justin returned to Pennsylvania where he began working for Forino, a well renowned Home Building Construction Company in the Berks County area. While employed with Forino, Justin was able to refine his already vast skill set and add home framing, excavation, and concrete pouring to his resume. He was quickly promoted to Superintendent Assistant where he oversaw many employees and the completion of jobs.

Upon leaving Forino, Justin worked for several smaller subcontractors such as NAMCO and Mike's Building and Remodeling before he made the decision to fulfill his dream of owning his own company. Justin is a construction guy first and is present on every job site.
