Kevin York Head Shots

Photographer Kevin York is proud to announce the opening of his new studio in Collegeville. The 800- square-foot space is located at 364 E. Main Street, offering clients an open, airy, and comfortable environment for headshots, portraits, and branding images.

The new studio is convenient to Philadelphia, King of Prussia, and many local business centers. And, York says, "It's important to note that I also do on-location photography as well. I'm happy to come to you to photograph individuals or teams in whatever environment you wish."

York says his strong suit is making a connection with a client to help them feel comfortable and capture the best image possible. He uses facial expression coaching to help create authentic, approachable and confident high-end headshots. "So many people tell me they hate their headshot. It's not you. It's because the photographer who took your picture didn't know how to make you shine. That's my superpower."
