Berks Counseling Center

Each September, Recovery Awareness Month shines a spotlight on the strength, resilience, and hope of individuals overcoming addiction. It's a powerful reminder to reduce stigma, promote understanding, and support accessible treatment options that truly make a difference in people's lives. This annual observance encourages communities to come together and celebrate the journeys of recovery, inspiring hope for those still on their path to wellness.

Berks Counseling Center (BCC) plays a vital role in this movement by providing essential services such as counseling, peer support, and medication-assisted treatment. Located at 645 Penn Street in Reading, PA, BCC is dedicated to helping individuals find their way to recovery and rebuild their lives. Through these programs, the center creates a supportive environment where hope, resilience, and transformation can flourish.

Led by Elizabeth Fortuner, who oversees BCC's Marketing, Communications, and Community Relations, the organization actively promotes awareness and community engagement each year. Elizabeth is passionate about fostering meaningful relationships and encouraging collaboration to strengthen the recovery community. For inquiries, event collaborations, or to share ideas, contact
